The creators of Medicating Normal spent three years documenting the journeys of five individuals profoundly impacted by the medications they were taking. Interviews with these individuals, psychiatrists and medical experts reveal the current mental health profession’s drug-centered approach to treatment, and the crises this created.

The screening will be followed by a community discussion featuring these panelists:

- Angela Peacock, former US Army Seargent, MSW, mental health advocate and film subject
- David Cope, former US Naval Officer, subject of the film
- Dr. Tom Perry, Internist and Clinical Associate Professor at the University of British Columbia
- Wendy Ractliffe, Co-director/Producer/Executive Producer, Medicating Normal
